Izmir has an unusual cluster of synagogues bearing a unique architectural style. Following the expulsion from Spain and Portugal in 1492, some came to Izmir and brought with them Ladino language, Sephardic religious and architectural traditions. Of 34 synagogues built in previous centuries in Izmir in an architectural style loyal to the praying style common in medieval Spain, only 8 remain today around the market area of Izmir. |

Felicitas Heimann-Jelinek & Christina Meri |

The Señora Synagogue is located within Izmir’s historic bazaar and is part of the unique complex of synagogues. It houses a collection of ritual textiles from various synagogues in Izmir. Ottoman Jewish textiles differ significantly from European ones. Through the examination of several selected examples we will familiarize ourselves with the typical characteristics of Ottoman-Sephardic synagogue textiles, which concern e.g. their distinguished shape or common embroidery techniques. As precious domestic embroideries were often adapted for synagogue usage, we will also get valuable information on the diversity of textiles fashionable in 19th century-Ottoman Empire. And as always, we will polish up our Hebrew and Hebrew hyphenated reading skills.

| 15:30 – 16:00 | Coffee Break                                                      |

<td>In January 2016, the Jewish Museum of Turkey in Istanbul reopened in a new location after a major redevelopment. In this session, Museum Director Nisya Allovi will speak with Joanne Rosenthal (Jewish Museum London) about the concept behind the new core exhibition galleries, the considerations and challenges which this project involved - curatorially and practically - and the way the new museum has been received by the public. Time will be allocated for questions and discussions.</td>

<td>Felicitas Heimann-Jelinek &amp; Christina Meri</td>
<td>The interior of the Señora Synagogue is decorated with several elaborated paper manuscripts, mainly Shiviti plaques that will be the focus of this workshop. These manuscripts are late examples of the wide spectrum of Oriental painted or printed Shiviti and Menorah plaques, as well as the old, strong and lasting artistic tradition of Turkish-Jewish papercuts and collages. Interestingly enough, they feature rich, multi-coloured compositions of a repertoire of symbols and motifs from Jewish and non-Jewish backgrounds, and various types of inscriptions, such as benedictions and names of angels the translation of which requires some in-depth knowledge of the biblical scriptures but also in the mystic tradition. The workshop will offer participants also a great opportunity to improve their skills in decoding Hebrew abbreviations.</td>

OPTIONAL EXCURSION PROGRAMME

9:00 – 17:00  Excursion to Sardis
We shall leave Izmir for Sardis after a visit at the old Community House and the house of Shabbetai Tzvi, which are at the City center. The tour of Sardis will start after lunch in a nearby restaurant and will include the Synagogue, Roman Baths, Arasta and Gymnasium.

Sardis is located in Manisa province. It was under numerous foreign rulers until its incorporation into the Roman Empire in 133 BCE and then served as the administrative center of the Roman province of Lydia. Sardis was reconstructed after a catastrophic earthquake (17 AD) and it enjoyed a long period of prosperity under the Roman rule. It is believed to have gained its Jewish community in the 3rd century BCE, as that was when King Antiochus III (223–187 BCE) encouraged Jews from various countries, including Babylonia, to move to Sardis. With Alfred Pontremoli and Tilda Koenka.

This session aims at facilitating peer discussion with international colleagues who can draw on their own work experiences.
